How you get 5x on your income

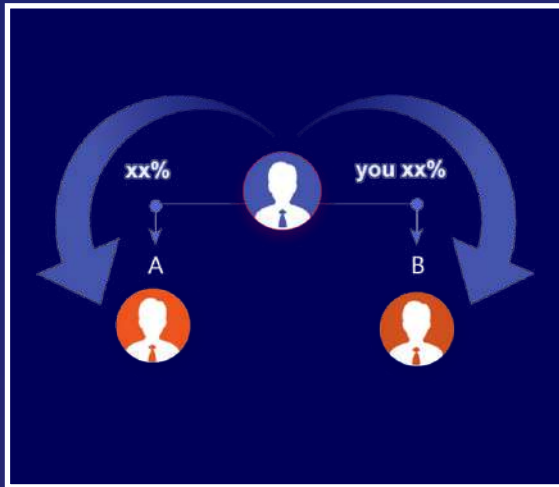

10% Direct Referral Income

A 10% referral income program is a type of affiliate or referral income where you earn 10% of the value of sales made through your referral link or code. This means for every sale generated through your recommendation, you receive 10% of the transaction amount as a commission.

10% Binary Income

Binary income is a compensation structure in MLM where a distributor's earnings are based on the performance and structure of two downline teams, referred to as the left community and the right community. The binary plan emphasizes the need for balance between these two communities to maximize earnings.

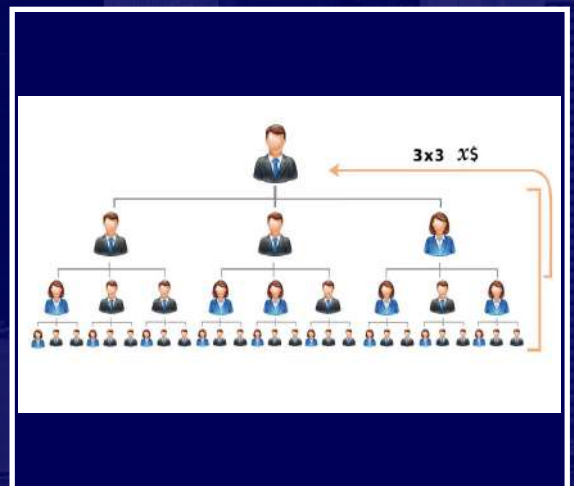

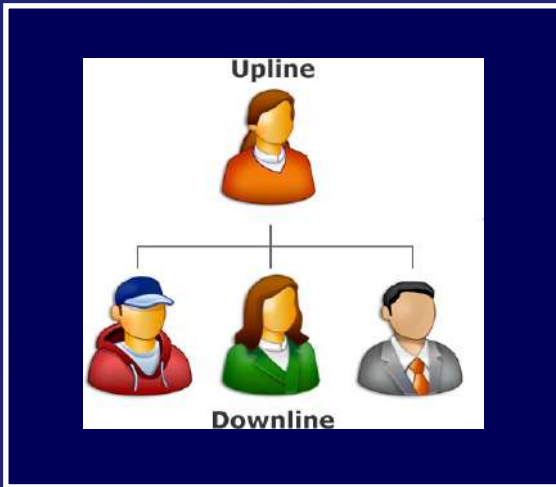

100% Associate Binary Income

Associate Binary Income is a type of earnings in Multi-Level Marketing (MLM) that derives from a binary compensation structure, specifically focusing on the role of associates within the binary system. An associate in this context typically refers to a new or entry-level distributor who is building their network and starting to earn income based on the binary structure.

Level's Income

Our MLM income model is structured to provide multiple streams of revenue and significant earning potential at various levels of participation. You will receive income from three levels: 1% from the first level, 2% from the second level, and 3% from the third level.

Upline Income

As part of Zenith5x's lucrative income structure, you will receive a 10% bonus on the earnings of your upline. This unique feature ensures that your financial growth is tied not only to your own efforts and the performance of your downline but also to the success of those above you in the network. This 10% upline earnings bonus is designed to enhance your overall income potential and reward your participation in the network, making Zenith5x an even more attractive investment opportunity.

Company Revenue Income

With Zenith5x, you will receive an additional 10% income based on the company's revenue. This unique profit-sharing feature ensures that your financial success is directly linked to the overall performance of Zenith5x, fostering a sense of collective achievement and motivation. This 10% revenue bonus not only enhances your earnings potential but also encourages a collaborative environment where everyone benefits from the company's prosperity.
